WYOMING TAX REVENUE REPORT

Prepared by
Department of Administration and Fiscal Control
Division of Research and Statistics

6th Edition
Cheyenne, Wyoming
1980

PREFACE

The 1980 Wyoming Tax Revenue Report displays receipts to State funds, which are maintained by the State Auditor, and selected tax revenues which are collected by the Department of Revenue and Taxation. Although the report accesses information gathered by these agencies, the Division of Research and Statistics is responsible for the tabulations. This edition contains information on the period, fiscal '74 through fiscal '80. The additional tables that present the balance of all funds and receipts to the General Fund have been added for completeness. For example, portions of the tax revenues in Table 4 of Section I are the major source of contributions to the General Fund category 10000. Sales tax figures are cross referenced for place of collection and the 1967 and the revised 1972 Standard Industrial Classification of the reporting firm. These classifications are explained in the Glossary section. The source reference for the data appears at the end of the tables. Other footnotes are referenced using the British Modern method (eg: (2,12) implies page 12 of the second Bibliographic citation. More intensive categorizations or additional copies may be obtained without cost by contacting the Department of Administration and Fiscal Control; Division of Research and Statistics; Emerson Building, Room 302; Cheyenne, Wyoming 82002. WYOMING TAX REVENUE REPORT

One of the best indications of Wyoming's economic progress in recent years is the increasing revenue that has been obtained from the State sales tax. Although some counties have increased the volume of collections by levying an additional 1% optional tax, this accounts for only a portion of the growth rate. For example, in 1974 the collections from retail businesses in the State amounted only to 22.4 million. For fiscal 1980 tax collections from this group increased over 203% in the six year period. Perhaps the best statistic with which to measure economic progress of this nature would be gross sales and not tax collections. However, this information has not yet been fully recorded by the Department of Revenue and Taxation and is presently not available. Additional indicators of demographic and economic progress are presented in two other reports generated by the Division of Research and Statistics; the Wyoming Income Report and Wyoming Employment Report. Together these three reports form a complimentary basis from which Wyoming's future may be extrapolated.

This annual issue displays actual sales taxes collected in each county and business or industry group. Currently, sales tax collection is the major emphasis, although other revenues which contribute to the General Fund are also included. Returns for each of these revenue categories are tabulated for the last seven fiscal years. In this manner changes in growth rates can be easily computed and the contributing factors identified. For example, in Uinta County part of the substantial increase in collections for fiscal 1980 can be attributed to the increased development of the Overthrust Belt.

The industry classifications used in Section II, III and IV represent groupings in accordance with the 1967 and the revised 1972 Standard Industrial Classification Manual which is published by the Federal Office of Management and Budget. This system of reporting is particularly useful in ascertaining business progress; however, it also insures that the receipts of an individual firm are not disclosed.

The Standard Industrial Classification was developed for use in the classification of establishments by type of activity in which they are engaged; for purposes of facilitating the collection, tabulation, presentation and analysis of data relating to establishments and for promoting uniformity and comparability (1,9). For purposes of this classification, an establishment is an economic unit, generally at a single physical location where business is conducted or where services or industrial operations are performed (1,10). Each establishment is assigned an industry code on the basis of its primary activity, which is determined by its principle product or group of products produced or distributed, or services rendered. Ideally, the principle product or service should be determined by its relative share of "value added" at the establishment. In practice, however, it is rarely possible to obtain this measure for individual products or services; typically, it is necessary to adopt some other criterion which may be expected to give approximately the same results in determining the primary activity of an establishment. It is recommended, therefore, that, when available, the following data measures be used for each of the major economic sectors in assigning industry codes:

DIVISION	DATA MEASURE
Agriculture	Value of production
Mining	Value of production
Construction	Value of production
Manufacturing	Value of production
Transportation	Value of receipts or revenues
Wholesale Trade	Value of sales
Retail Trade	Value of sales
Finance	Value of receipts
Services	Value of receipts or revenues
Public Administration	Employment or payroll

Occasionally, in activity-diversified establishments, the appropriate measure cannot be determined or estimated for each product or service. In some instances, an industry classification based upon the recommended output measure will not represent adequately the relative economic importance of each of the varied activities carried on at such establishments. In such cases, employment or payroll information should be used to determine the primary activity of the establishments (1.12).

Due to this broad categorization of multi-sector establishments under one SIC code, in many cases collections will be understated in one sector and overstated in another. While this does not influence the accuracy of the total for either counties or the State, it will obviously have an effect upon collections for a particular sector.

The measurement of Wyoming's economic progress or a specific industry can be obtained from these tax reports by conversion to net taxable sales.

This is calculated by dividing each tax collection figure by the appropriate tax rate (see Table 1 for effective rates) for that county. The result is then gross sales less exemptions allowed under State statute. Because of these exemptions (see Table 2) the proxy could be defined as a conservatively biased estimate of gross sales.

The following tables display detailed collections only for fiscal year periods. The historical monthly series presented in Section II has been included for analysis of seasonal variations. Since the information is stored on magnetic tape and accessed electronically, the information can be tabulated for any time period, broad industrial category and county group. However, due to a tape format conversion by Revenue and Taxation monthly figures are unavailable from July 1978 through October 1979. Again, due to the tape format conversion, figures for fiscal year 1980 were forced to be compiled using a quarter year of Revenue and Taxation's collections format and three quarters year transaction date format. The collections format is the amount actually collected during any one month/year, while the transaction date format groups collections into months/year according to the date of the actual transaction. This report is based on transaction dates.

Other economic and demographic data, previously mentioned, which might be beneficial to individuals, businesses or municipalities is available in similar form including aggregate income and employment. The information can be obtained free of charge by contacting the Division of Research and Statistics, Room 302, Emerson Building, Cheyenne, Wyoming, 82002.
